

Jasmin Vardimon Company are thrilled to receive crucial funding support from Arts Council England's Cultural Recovery Fund.

13th October 2020

Jasmin Vardimon Company would like to extend its thanks to Arts Council England and the Department of Culture, Media and Sport for this welcome investment. At a time of continuing uncertainty, this financial support allows the company to continue its vital education activities, offering opportunities and experiences to the local community and driving excellence in dance training.

This positive news caps a busy week for the company. Their Pop Up Space at the Ashford Designer Outlet is back up and running (now operating as their office base), with their studio and online classes about to resume. The new cohort of JV2 students have been settling into their brand new studio, which opened last week and is immediately adjacent to the Pop Up Space. It's going to be a challenging but exciting and progressive year ahead.
